(From the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery,) having taken the rooms formerly occupied by him at that which was burned out in the recent fire, repaired, remodelled, and fitted up in the best manner with all the modern instruments and appliances for the performance of all kinds of operations in Dentistry, begs leave to inform his old friends and patrons and the public generally, that he is at home again in the same old spot, where he would be happy to see them and wait upon them with anything wanted in the Dentistry line.

He would call special attention to his new apparatus for generating Nitrous Oxide Gas, Sprague's Patent, the only generator that makes a pure and odorless gas, and the only one of the kind ever in this city.

He continues also his specialty of administering ether spray, which is fast taking the place of the old method of inhalation, being entirely safe to the most delicate persons.

Please give him a call at his new rooms

Money Cannot Buy It

For Sight is Priceless!

THE DIAMOND GLASSES,

Manufactured by J. E. SPENCER & CO., New York, which are now offered to the public, are pronounced by all the celebrated Opticians of the World to be the MOST PERFECT, Natural, Artificial help to the human eye ever known.

They are ground under their own supervision from minute Crystal Pebbles, melted together, and derive their name, "Diamond," on account of their hardness and brilliancy.

The Scientific Principle on which they are constructed brings the core or centre of the lens directly in front of the eye, producing a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural healthy sight, and preventing all unpleasant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of sight, dizziness, &c., peculiar to all others in use.

They are mounted in the finest manner in frames of the best quality, of all materials used for that purpose. Their finish and durability cannot be surpassed.

CAUTION.—None genuine unless bearing their trade mark <> stamped on every frame.

LOWELL & SPENCER,
Jewelers and Opticians, are Sole Agents for Bangor, Maine, from whom they can only be obtained. These goods are not supplied to Peddlers at any price.

Chalybeate Spring Water!

BOTTLED FROM THE SPRING, AT KATAHDIN IRON WORKS, ME.

This water holds in solution a large proportion of IRON with SULPHUR and a trace of ARSENIC, and from its combination is one of the best means of restoring an impoverished blood to a healthy state.

It is peculiarly adapted to relieve debilitated conditions of the urinary organs, and in many cases has completely cured persons who have tried many other medicines without any relief.

It can be taken at any hour of the day—but after meals is preferable—in quantities from one half pint to two pints per day. It blackens the stools and produces other changes that occur in taking iron in any form.

Photograph Gallery,

Corner of Main Street and West Market Square,

Where can be obtained any and all of the Different Styles of Solar Pictures!

The operating department will be under the sole charge of

MR. JOHN A. HEARD, of Boston,

Whose experience and success in the most popular rooms in Boston for the past twenty years, entitle him to the confidence and patronage of the citizens of Bangor.

All the new styles of Photographs, and the ever desirable Porcelains, the gem of all pictures, which Mr Heard has made a specialty for the past five years, are now being executed with a degree of beauty and excellence never before attained in this city. We also have a process for burnishing Card Photographs superior to any other now in use, giving a brilliancy and effect obtained in no other way, as may be seen by examining our specimens.

Ladies' and Gentlemen

Who consider themselves hard subjects, who "never can get a good Picture," are especially invited to call at our rooms, as we are now able to remove all imperfections of the skin, such as freckles, &c., rendering the picture perfectly fair and clear.

Hoping that our efforts to make this the most popular Gallery in the state, [illegible] as it has been in the past, will be appreciated, we would respectfully return our thanks to the public for past patronage, and hope for a continuance of the same, only by employing the very best talent the Country affords. MONDAY JAN 2 1871

A GLANCE FORWARD

[illegible] at the weight of sleep or weariness
And night's deep darkness has no chain to bind
His rushing [illegible]

The metes and bounds with which we measure off the flying years are powerless to arrest the inexorable course of Time, and while we pause to mark the annual round, the present rolls behind us into a memory of the past and we are sweeping along the highway of its future. The twelve months of 1870 with all the events that have marked their passage have passed into the realm of history, the last leaf of the record has been written, the volume closed, and we have already begun inscribing its sequel upon the fresh pages of 1871. That which is written is indelible and the history of the past is only valuable in the lesson it conveys for guidance in the future. The important occurrences of the past year are familiar to all, their history has been blazoned so that he who runs might read, and a recapitulation of them at this point would be repeating an oft told tale. We prefer to glance forward over the course upon which we have just entered and are now hastening along with rapid strides.

In many respects we begin the new year both as a State and Nation under favorable [illegible] and with gratifying prospects. The [illegible] which have rested so heavily have [illegible] lighter [illegible] their weight more equally distributed [illegible] under the strengthening influence of returning prosperity the people are daily becoming less mindful of the cost at [illegible] were preserved and [illegible] for the blessings which must [illegible] have been lost forever. We start [illegible] with all its great [illegible] thriving industries and [illegible] with a healthy, vigorous [illegible] population with new avenues [illegible] resources of wealth developed [illegible] and with opportunities [illegible] such as the people of no [illegible] enjoyed. We have only to [illegible] of the privileges granted us, [illegible] for the future and [illegible] year will unfold fresh passages [illegible] progress and national grandeur. The assembling of the legislative [illegible] of the State and the Nation in the early days of the year affords opportunities [illegible] such direction to public affairs as will conduce to the general well being by [illegible] impetus to those agencies which [illegible] suffering and crime to diffuse intelligence and multiply the moral and material benefits of the people.

Among the accumulation of measures already pending and still to be brought before Congress there are some of paramount importance which we trust will receive early attention. The determination to meet honestly the just debts of the nation has already been fully manifested and it now remains for the legislators to provide for meeting them in the manner best calculated to avoid unnecessary exaction while maintaining the nation's credit unimpaired. To this end we hope to record such a still farther reduction of taxes as will stimulate business by encouraging the employment of capital in manufacturing and other industries, and a continuance of the policy of retrenchment which has already saved so much of the public treasure. With the increased wealth which will accrue from the unfettered enterprise of the country [illegible] posterity will be amply prepared to contribute its small quota to the [illegible] which we have made the [illegible]. The modification of the tariff by reducing the duties on articles of common use [illegible] necessary to health and comfort and [illegible] the schedule so that the revenues will be derived chiefly from articles [illegible] are best able to pay with a [illegible] the best interests of all classes [illegible] will no less receive attention. The condition of our commerce demands prompt relief to save it from utter [illegible] ship yards are waiting for the [illegible] which shall put them in activity and [illegible] welfare of the country requires that we [illegible] great shipping interests which [illegible] formed our boast. The restoration [illegible] relations throughout our [illegible] the adjustment of our foreign complications [illegible] the protection of the oppressed, the [illegible] of education and numberless [illegible] are devolving upon our representatives and upon their action will largely depend [illegible] 1871.

Our immediate legislators soon to assemble [illegible] important responsibilities in guiding [illegible] the year. The selection [illegible] representative to the national [illegible] will be among the first of their duties [illegible] reason to doubt their ability [illegible] wisely and well. The fostering of [illegible] schools, the foundation of our public safety and prosperity, is a subject which cannot be too earnestly considered, as everything which tends to increase their power for usefulness tends to the elevation of the mass [illegible] the decrease of poverty and disorder. We have large and fertile tracts to be opened up to settlement by a wise policy which shall increase facilities of communication and develop the natural resources of the State, and the Legislature can do much and in many ways to encourage the co-operation of capital and labor in creating new sources of activity and wealth. The just apportionment of representation, the revision of defective or unwise laws and other of the ordinary legislative duties may be made to conserve the popular welfare and smooth the pathway of the year.

As we look forward to-day, the prospect is bright and cheering, the whole country is awakening to a new life of energetic progress, we have the means and ability to prosper, and we confidently anticipate that the next New Year will find us richer in wealth, population, intelligence and virtue and again looking forward with still higher hopes to the future.

The Eastern Argus celebrates the benevolence of Wm M Tweed, as exhibited in his recent donation of $50,000 for the poor, which the Herald although not hostile to Tammany declares is "only restoring to the people an atom, small as a single sand upon the sea shore, of what is their own, and, instituting a comparison between the philanthropic 'Big Six' and Senator Sumner, devoutly offers the following inquiry

"Which we ask is the man of true Christianity and which best illustrates the commands of God and the teachings of the Saviour?"

We can think of no comment upon this so appropriate as the following tribute to the public and private virtues of Mr Tweed, which appeared in the editorial columns of the World last spring, and which the Times suggests as a fitting motto for his proposed statue, it being the testimony of an old friend, which Mr T has always taken a just pride in reading

"Senator Tweed's treachery to the city, by increasing whose taxes he has become one of its heaviest tax payers, inspires a resentment which every honest Democrat in New York will share. He thrives on percentages of pilfering, grows rich on the distributed dividends of rascality. His extortions are as boundless in their sum as in their ingenuity. He passes his Sundays drinking punch in a stable—an employment so much more innocuous than his usual course of life that perhaps we ought to congratulate him on his improvement. He was worth less than nothing when he took to the trade of politics, for he was a bankrupt. Now he has great possessions, estimated all the way from five millions of dollars to twice as much. The result of Messrs Sweeney and Tweed's administration has clearly been to decrease the public revenues by the amount of their own gains—that is to say, they have in a more or less circuitous manner swindled the public to that extent."

GENERAL SCHENCK INTERVIEWED

A New York dispatch states that in an interview on Friday, General Schenck said that he had not yet received his instructions from Washington, but expects they will leave him a fair margin for his own discretion in future negotiations. He doubted if proposals and terms for adjustment of the pending claims between England and the United States would proceed from this Government, but thought both Governments would meet each other half way and try to agree on a basis of settlement. Of the fisheries question Gen Schenck said —

"My impression is that the Government of Great Britain is not half so difficult to deal with in relation to the fisheries, as the Canadians themselves and I have reason to believe the conduct of the latter is not stimulated by instructions from the mother country but on the contrary causes much concern to Great Britain herself. England feels annoyed at the conduct of the Canadians and will probably send out a delegate to the Government of the Dominion with instructions to put a curb on their arrogance and bring them to a sense of the duty they owe to the people of the United States. Without regard to the merits of the case, I must say their behavior has been churlish and offensive in the highest degree. I believe if England could, without a sacrifice of traditional pride, give up her colonies in America, she would most willingly do it. If Canada would sever her connection with the mother country and declare herself an independent State, the British Government would raise no objection to such an arrangement. English interest lies in the East and her possessions in that quarter are the means by which she can check the ambitious designs of other powers and it is my opinion that in the natural course of events Canada will apply to our Union."

Mr Schenck also stated that he could not say exactly in what form the Alabama claims would be presented nor what terms they will embrace, but money alone would not suffice as a compensation for the damages caused by fitting out the rebel cruisers —

"We want some decided action in the matter and shall try to get all we can. The fishery question will be drawn into the discussion along with the Alabama claims. We shall try to obtain a settlement of these claims now and forever."

In answer to the question whether it was the intention of our Government to take advantage of England's difficulties in the East, in order to press these claims Mr Schenck said —

"I do not believe in that superlative magnanimity which would forbid us to take advantage of existing circumstances. England is anxious to settle on account of her difficulties and now is our time to obtain the best terms. I think it was ill advised on the part of Forney to assert in his paper under authority of the President that we should not take advantage of the present state of affairs in Europe in order to press the adjustment of our claims. The President never expressed such views. Without bullying or threatening we wish to let England know that the time has arrived for the adjustment of our outstanding claims and that we mean to wait no longer."

Mr Schenck expressed the belief that no danger was arising between the countries out of the existing controversies and declared his intention to avoid all connection or entangling alliances with the negotiations now pending among the European powers in reference to the Eastern question.

THE GEORGIA ELECTION. The returns from the Georgia election indicate that the Democrats have elected their candidates to the 41st and 42d Congress in the 1st, 5th, 6th and 7th Districts, while Republican Congressmen have been elected to the 41st and 42d Congress from the 2d, 3d and 4th Districts, in a close contest. A dispatch to the Tribune says

"The seat of the Democrat elected to Congress from the 5th District will be contested owing to the fact that his disabilities have not been removed and the fraud and intimidation practiced at the polls. In fact it could hardly be called an election, the colored voters being driven from the polls on election day in large numbers. The Legislature just elected will be largely Democratic but this Legislature does not according to Republican opinion in the State elect U S Senators, that question having already been decided by the last Legislature. The new Legislature it should be remembered does not meet until November next. The Republicans here are not ready to believe that Congress will refuse the admission of their Senator whose term commences on the 4th of March next—should Congress admit the Senators elected by the last Legislature, thus ending the vexed question, it would give the Republican party a strong foothold at least in Georgia on which to rally from their defeat."

SUSPENSION OF THE HOME INSURANCE COMPANY. A special meeting of the stockholders of the Home Fire Insurance Company of New Haven was held on Thursday to take action in view of the embarrassed condition of the Company's affairs. A few months since, owing to what was deemed mismanagement and heavy losses, the capital stock was reduced from $1,000,000 to $500,000 and Mr C S Bushnell of Union Pacific Railroad fame was placed at the head of the Company in hopes that by his ability and the pursuance of a severe course of retrenchment and economy the Company might be righted and saved from ruin. Accordingly, valuable real estate of the Company in New Haven, erected in its apparently most palmy days, and when its stock sold greatly above par, was sold at auction to raise funds to meet indebtedness, extra hazardous risks were called in, and every means thought feasible was used to save the institution.

But new disasters, in the shape of claims for indemnification for losses, came in thick and fast on policies never recorded in the books of the Company, and which the Company had no idea it was carrying. At last matters came to a crisis, and at the meeting on Thursday it was found that the stock was in the language of the President worse than nothing. The meeting adjourned for final action on Saturday, Dec 31st, after passing a vote to stop issuing policies at once.

The Grand Army Journal comes out boldly in opposition to any proposition to grant land to the soldier which does not require an actual settlement on it. The grant of land titles would be virtually a small additional bounty to those who would sell them, and a harvest for claim agents who would buy them up for capitalists, but it would be advantageous to the United States to give a homestead to every veteran who would settle on it.

A SHIP'S COMPANY MURDERED BY COOLIES. All of the officers and the entire crew except six of the French barque Moralla Penelope, from Macao for Callao, with a cargo of coolies, were murdered October 10th by the coolies, who rose en masse and completely overpowered all resistance. The vessel was then about 150 miles south of the Ladrone Islands and was navigated into the harbor of Tinpach by the survivors of the crew.

A DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSMAN INSULTED. A dispute occurred on Friday night during a game of cards in Jem Mace's saloon in New York, in which George Hill, a gambler, deliberately spat in John Morrissey's face. Both drew revolvers, but Mace and his friends prevented a fight.

A London dispatch states that the conference of the Powers on the Eastern question has been indefinitely postponed, as France has refused to take part in it and the absence of one of the signatories of the treaty of Paris would render the meeting useless.

A call has been issued in Texas for the formation of a "white man's party," in which with singular modesty, the colored people are invited to join.

Dr. Stillman Spooner of Oneida, N Y, a homœopathic surgeon, has been struck from the list of Examining Pension Surgeons by Commissioner H Van Aernam, on the grounds "that all Examining Surgeons for the Bureau should belong to one school and adopt one theory of medicine," and that he "did not belong to the school of medicine recognized by the Bureau." Dr. Spooner protests, in a long letter to the Commissioner, against the insult thus offered the large and influential body of homeopathic practitioners in the United States

A FINE ESTABLISHMENT. Mr. Editor—Noting the improvements and new buildings in Lincoln in this County, since the completion of the European & North American Railroad to and through that town, the residence of Hon. W R. Hersey, erected the past season, at Lincoln Center, is particularly deserving of attention. The house is 24x32 feet on the ground, the first story is 11, the second 10 feet high, with Mansard roof, two bay windows in front. The plans were furnished by Morse & Young of Bangor The L is 29 feet in length, with a piazza along its front and Lutheran windows in the roof. The dining room and kitchen are finished with ash. The whole work was done by Mr. Henry A. Tibbets of Bangor. There is a cellar under the house and L; the bottom cemented and the walls of split granite. In the cellar is a cistern of 50 hogsheads capacity, and one of Wood Bishop & Co's best wood furnaces. Connected with the house is a shed 40 feet long, containing dairy and wood rooms; next, and at right angles with the shed, is the barn, 120 ft. in length, with basement—30 feet of which is constructed of split granite At the end of this barn is the sheep-house 30 feet in length. Mr. Hersey has also built the past season, across the passage way a stable and granary, 54x32 feet, with granite basement story or cellar for his hogs, with boiler-house 30x20 feet attached Mr. Hersey's residence is located on an eminence midway between the Penobscot river and the European & North American Railway, and presents a fine appearance It is one of the best arranged farm establishments in Penobscot County L. REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY

PLAN FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Committee appointed by the Mercantile Association on the subject of its library, have held two meetings and have instructed their Chairman to report their proceedings through the press and to appeal to the public in behalf of their project for a public library

They find the debt of the Mercantile Association to be about twenty three hundred dollars that it has hired the second story of the new Kenduskeag Block, over the three Western stores and half of the fourth which ample space has been specially fitted up for a library at a cost of some two thousand dollars at a rent of one thousand and fifty dollars a year, that the income of the Association derived entirely from assessments on the shares in the library of six dollars each amounts to about twenty five hundred dollars which is entirely insufficient to pay this rent the salary of the Librarian the cost of lighting and heating the rooms and also for that annual purchase of new books which is indispensable

A large part of the $780 00 paid by the Insurance Company, will be needed in cleaning and new covering the books injured by the smoke and water at the late fire

There will be something collected on former assessments but the furniture required in the new rooms will absorb these balances

There is hope that many new subscribers can be obtained but the most sanguine admit that unless a permanent fund can be raised, it will be very difficult to sustain the library without carrying round a subscription paper every year or at best every few years

Under these circumstances the Committee Voted, That the Committee appointed last Summer to procure a subscription of twenty five hundred dollars to pay the debt (on which about $1,600,00 has been subscribed) be requested to continue their work and obtain if possible that sum

Voted To recommend the establishment of a Free Public Library and Reading Room in this city on the following basis—

1—The city of Bangor to pay the rent of the rooms (using for the present those hired by the Mercantile Association) to pay the salary of the Librarian and his assistant and to warm and light the rooms

2—Thirty thousand dollars at least and if possible, fifty thousand, to be raised by subscription to be safely invested and to constitute a permanent fund the interest of which is to be annually used in making additions to the library

3—The debt of the Mercantile Association to be paid off by the subscription now in progress and all its books amounting to about ten thousand volumes and other property to be given to this Public Library The Mechanics Association to give its library of about ——— volumes and its permanent fund of about eight thousand dollars to this Public Library

In the free conversation which took place at both meetings the opinion seemed to be general that a Public Library would add to the prosperity of the city as well as to the cultivation and happiness of its people that we of this generation ought to commence the work and place it on a sufficiently safe basis and make it sufficiently prominent and respectable to attract the attention of liberal men and women and induce them to make it gifts of books or money during their lives and to remember it kindly in their wills One man may fill an alcove with new books another give his private library another his collection of minerals another who leaves no children some fine portraits of his ancestors another some beautiful statuary another his private picture gallery

How much pleasure we should take in visiting such a library with such accessories and in learning to appreciate its beauties and in showing it to our friends! As to the propriety of the city paying the rent of the rooms &c, we consider the library as the necessary supplement to the common schools It is founded on the popular basis of the public good It is for the common benefit of all the people The poor man can take out as many books as the rich and what little it may add to the taxes of the man of wealth he will not regret on account of the happiness and cultivation it gives to the poor, and because he knows that his property is more secure and more valuable in consequence of that cultivation

Of course there is much to be done Many details to arrange in which we shall be aided by the history and regulations of other public libraries

This Committee will report to a meeting of the Mercantile Association to be held by adjournment, at the Reading Room on Thursday evening next, when the views of the Association will no doubt be expressed The Mechanic's Association is understood to have voted to unite with a public library, and the Chairman of their Committee was directed to confer with that Association on the subject

The opinion was expressed in our Committee that if the two Associations concurred in this project, it would be best to call a public meeting, at the new library rooms, to consider the matter, appoint a Committee to solicit subscriptions to the thirty or fifty thousand dollar fund, and to bring the matter before the City Government

Chairman

BANGOR PRODUCE MARKET

SATURDAY, Dec. 31st, 1870

The following report is obtained by particular observation on the market, and the quotations are the prices paid for produce from the country teams this day, or about the average for the week past

The past week has been an unusually dull one on the market, but very few teams in with produce, and the market men complain that the roads for some distance out of the city are made up of alternate spots of sleighing and wheeling, but the accommodation for sleighing puts in the largest appearance

HAY—Loose hay on the market continues to sell at about the past two or three weeks' prices. The demand is not so great on account of the mild winter so far The best qualities selling at from $20 to $22 and occasionally a load at $23 per ton The poorer qualities sell at from $16 to $18 and $19

STRAW—Loose straw is scarce, and a good article sells quick at from $12 to $14 per ton

OATS—Come in very sparingly, and are now selling quick at from 65 to 70 cents per bushel.

BEANS—Yellow eyed beans are worth from $2.35 to $2.40 per bushel and occasionally an extra lot has been sold a trifle higher. Extra hand picked pea beans are worth from $2.50 to $2.75 per bushel

BUTTER—Comes in plenty and we should quote the range of the market this week from 30 [illegible] cents, though what would be called by dealers a nice or extra article would [illegible] 40 cents.

DRIED APPLES—Come in very sparingly, though it is reported they are very plenty in the country We should quote them on the market from 6 to 8 cents per pound

POTATOES—Sold to-day at from 80 to 85 cents per bushel But very few coming in, and these in small lots

POULTRY—There was quite a display of this article of produce to-day, and chickens sold at from 12 to 16 cents per pound, and turkeys from 16 to 20 and 22 cents. Geese from $1 00 to $1.25, and some very extra ones at $1 40. Ducks 75 cents to $1 00 per pair

ROUND HOGS—Sell at from 10 to 10½ cents per lb

WOOD—Dry hard wood sells at from $6 50 to $7 00 per cord

FURTHER LANGUAGE FROM TRUTHFUL JAMES.

(NYE'S FORD, STANISLAUS)

1870

Do I sleep? do I dream?
Do I wonder and doubt?
Are things what they seem,
Or is visions about?
Is our civilization a failure?
Or is the Caucasian played out?

Which expressions are strong;
Yet would feebly imply
Some account of a wrong—
Not to call it a lie—
As was worked off on William, my pardner,
Which his name it was W. Nye.

He came down to the Ford
On the very same day
Of that Lottery drawed
By those sharps at the Bay;
And he says to me, "Truthful, how goes it?"
I replied, "It is far, far from gay—

For the camp has gone wild
On this Lottery game,
And has even beguiled
Injin Dick by the same."
Then said Nye to me, "Injins is pizen—
Do you know what his number is, James?"

I replied,
"[illegible] 9 8 [illegible] is his hand
Which he started—and drew
Out a list, which he scanned;
Then he softly went for his revolver,
With language I cannot command.

Then I said "William Nye!"
But he turned upon me,
And the look in his eye
Was quite painful to see;
And he says, "You mistake; this poor Injin
I protects from such sharps as you be!"

I was shocked and withdrew;
But I grieve to relate,
When he next met my view
Injin Dick was his mate,
And the two around town was a lying
In a frightfully dissolute state.

Which the war dance they had
Round a tree at the Bend
Was a sight that was sad;
And it seemed that the end
Would not justify the proceedings,
As I quiet remarked to a friend.

For that Injin he fled
The next day to his band;
And we found William spread
Very loose on the strand,
With a peaceful-like smile on his features,
And a dollar greenback in his hand;

Which the same when rolled out
We observed with surprise,
That the Injin, no doubt,
Had believed was the prize—
Them figures in red in the corner,
Which the number of notes specifies.

Was it guile, or a dream?
Is it Nye that I doubt?
Are things what they seem?
Or is visions about?
Is our civilization a failure?
Or is the Caucasian played out?

MOTHER BUNCH'S SABLES

BY MRS. R. G. LOWE

That? Why, don't you know? I thought everybody in Brakeville knew Mother Bunch.

And Rose Calcott laughed, that pleasant care-free laugh that had always had a peculiar attraction for the young man who now walking by her side glanced with a look of admiration that was not far removed from tenderness upon the fresh sparkling face to which the keen, wintry air had lent a brighter glow than usual while he remarked, half indifferently, as the object of his curiosity passed from sight up one of the nearest streets:

"I never happened to hear of her before; but," he added gaily, "I am a devoted admirer of beautiful old women and the sweet motherly face of this one excited a desire to know something of her."

He did not see the sneer upon the rosy lip of his companion; he only heard the soft musical tone in which she replied:

"The old lady has really quite a history. You have noticed that handsome house of Col. Estes in Congress street?"

"Certainly."

"This woman was born there. Her father was one of the earliest settlers in the place and was a very wealthy as well as highly respected man. But when his only daughter had been married but a year or two he lost his fortune in some luckless speculations and the house with all its beautiful surroundings passed into the hands of strangers."

She saw that her auditor was interested and shrewdly assuming the sympathetic, she added in a still softer tone:

"Poor creature! She has served as a cook many a time in that house where she was once the mistress."

That she had touched the right chord by her little affectation of womanly tenderness was evident by the tender deference of his tone as he asked, still pursuing the subject so really distasteful to his haughty companion:

"Her name is an odd one. Is it her real or only a nickname?"

The young lady smothered a sigh of impatience.

"How tiresomely persistent!" was her unspoken comment; then as a sudden thought flashed across her mind she replied with an air of innocent unconsciousness (he couldn't see the involuntary curling of the small taper fingers in their sheltering ermine) and there was a soft comfortable "purr" in the voice that would have deceived any one far more suspiciously by nature than Russell Layton.

"Her real name is Bunce. Why!" and the dark innocent looking eyes scanned his face furtively as she added, "she is Ruth Bunce's grandmother."

"Ruth Bunce?"

"Yes, the girl who works at copying in the office. The one," she added artlessly as if fearing that he might even now fail to recognize the young person without a special description, "with such soft brown eyes and a complexion like a May flower."

"You are the first woman that I ever knew to be poetical in describing one of her own sex," was the laughing retort, in an easy, unembarrassed tone that proved to Miss Rose's intense satisfaction that she had nothing to fear from the daily presence of the sweet faced grand daughter of old Mother Bunch. To tell the truth it had been in direct opposition to the wishes of his jealous, self-willed daughter, that Squire Calcott, consulting his own interests as well as his natural kind heartedness had given pretty Ruth Bunce employment as a copyist in his law office, nor did he trouble himself in regard to the possibility of any love entanglement between her and his handsome partner Russell Layton.

"And what if they should?" he demanded bluntly in reply to a hint from his angry daughter.

"In the first place, I never could see any particular necessity for two people falling in love just because they happen to be under the same roof a few hours every day, and in the next place, if they should I don't see anything dreadful about it in this case. Layton has no relatives to suit in his choice of a wife, and I guess," he added, with a sly twinkle in his eye, "that Mother Bunch wouldn't be likely to make any great opposition to the match."

Miss Rose's blue eyes flashed indignantly. "You talk like a fool, papa!" she exclaimed with a decidedly unfilial sneer.

"It isn't at all likely that Mr. Layton will demean himself to marry one so far his inferior in social position. I was only thinking of the poor girl's peace of mind," she added, with an air of lofty compassion that seemed to strike her father as decidedly ludicrous, for he laughed heartily as he replied in his blunt, honest fashion:

"Don't trouble yourself, my dear, in regard to Ruth Bunce's heart affairs. I'll risk that young lady to take care of her own peace of mind, as well as her good name," he added, with a significance that his daughter understood as a hint to her to bridle her own tongue, and which, although she dared not disregard it, made her hate still more deeply the slight, unassuming girl who, at her desk in a remote part of the office, toiled patiently day after day, to lighten the task of that dear old grandmother who had so lovingly protected and cherished her own helpless infancy and childhood.

Mother Bunch was, as the saying is, one who "had seen trouble," and although the glad light of youth in her kindly eyes had been long since quenched in tears, while sorrow's almond crown had for years rested above her sadly furrowed brow, there was a patient, even cheery smile about the placid mouth, a loving heartsomeness in the always low and quiet tones that won for her the confidence and respect of old and young, until the title that some mischievous youngster had bestowed upon her in compliment to her plump, cushiony figure, came to be really a pet name, most used by those who loved her best, and to whose hearts "Mother Bunch" seemed, somehow, nearer than "Mrs. Bunce" with all her excellences could ever have become.

And yet, in spite of her general favoritism the old lady had been censured, and that too by some of her very best friends. Even Mrs. Calcott, who had been in her fortune her most generous patron, friend, even, after that terrible time when, defying contagion for her own darling, the generous hearted woman had nursed back to life from the grasp of that fell destroyer of childhood, scarlet fever, the Squire's only daughter, the little Rose, had been heard to say that, "For a woman who went out doing day's works, living from hand to mouth, and necessarily dressing in the cheapest, plainest manner, it was in very poor taste to say the least, for her to wear those elegant SABLE FURS, even if they were her son's last gift."

And that these were the sentiments of the community at large, upon the subject, there is no kind of reason for doubting.

Mother Bunch had, as Miss Rose Calcott had asserted, "a history," and the sad record of her impoverished youth, was but a small part of the mournful story.

Early widowed, her whole heart was naturally bound up in her son, a bright, noble little fellow who, as he grew up into a handsome enterprising young man, with a spice of Yankee shrewdness about him that boded well for his success in the business he had chosen, that of a fur dealer, seemed sure to fulfil her highest expectations, and when he married a gentle, loving girl whose orphaned heart gladly turned with a daughter's love to the motherly woman who received her with such a tender welcome, the future seemed without a cloud, and one by one the faint wrinkles that years of care and anxiety had drawn upon the now matronly face of dear "Mother Bunch" were smoothed out in the genial atmosphere of a protecting as well as all satisfying home love.

But the years rolled by, and there came a change. No longer satisfied with his moderate gains, the young man lent a willing ear to the stories that reached them, from time to time, of the immense fortunes to be made in a few years, in the far off Russias, where furs worth a King's ransome might be obtained for a comparative trifle, if one had but the hardihood and enterprise to brave the inclement climate and half savage natives.

It would be useless to speak of her loving opposition with which his project was received, or of the many arguments by which that opposition was silenced if not subdued, but when another winter came round the lonely wife and mother shuddered at sight of the cold white snow drifts, and frost bound rivers, for they thought of him who, afar in that inhospitable land of ice and snow was patiently enduring untold hardships for their sakes.

Now and then a letter reached them, but they were necessarily infrequent, as much of his time was spent far from the dwelling of his fellow men; but the news was always cheering.

His health was good, never better—and he was succeeding in his business even beyond his expectations.

But now another shadow crept slowly over the household, and the mother saw, with tremulous foreboding, how day by day, her daughter's step grew feebler, and her cheek paler until at last even the touch of her baby's fingers upon her faintly throbbing breast, scarce stirred the fluttering life beneath, and when the New Year came joyously in, crowned with evergreen, and heralded by thousands of brazen tongues from town and hamlet, her soul clasped hands with the dying year, and floated out silently, meekly into the great Beyond,—another atom lost from earth, another angel before the Throne.

After his wife's death Halbert Bunce said little in his letters about coming home, and some five years had passed away when his mother was almost as much surprised as delighted to receive news of his intended return.

"I shall start for home the fifteenth of this month in the English brig Calypso, and shall be with you, wind and tide favoring us, somewhere about the middle of May."

There was little rest at the cottage for the next two months, and people said that Mother Bunch had actually grown young since the tidings of her son's return had reached her.

Even little Ruth was diligently drilled in her reading lesson four times a day, for "it wouldn't do," her grandmother declared, "for papa to come home and find his little girl a dunce. Why, he could read a chapter in the Bible, himself, when he was at her age."

And the little maiden toiled with praiseworthy diligence to fit herself for the approval of that wonderful father, whose name was the first that her baby lips had been taught to frame, but of whom she retained no actual recollection. To her childish imagination he was a wonderful mixture of all the perfections with which human nature has ever been credited.

Every morning as soon as her eyes were open came the eager inquiry:

"Will papa come to day?"

And just as regularly came the smiling reply:

"Perhaps—I hope so."

Hopefully at first, but as week after week slipped by, and no news were heard, anxious fears crept into the waiting woman's heart, fears that were, alas! only too soon realized, by her receiving a letter from the captain of the "Calypso," containing the sad tidings of her son's death and burial at sea, accompanied by a few hundreds of dollars that were found upon his person, and a trunk containing his clothing.

It was in this trunk, carefully packed beneath the other contents, that the weeping mother found the set of sables that were to cause her neighbor's so much disquietude.

On the wrapper was marked in the handwriting that she knew so well, her own name and beneath, as if scrawled at random, words that brought a thrill of joy to her torn heart and a prayer of gratitude to her pale lips as she read through blinding tears what had been, though unwittingly, his parting words:

"For the best, the dearest, the truest of mothers,—whose love has been my safeguard from the temptations of life, my incentive to honest, manly toil, my comfort in sorrow, and my most precious treasure until death do us part."

By the most careful investigation no more money could be found, although he had always written encouragingly in regard to his business affairs, and the only solution of the mystery was that he must have lost heavily in some recent speculation of which he had not seen fit to inform his friends.

Perhaps it was as well for the bereaved Mother that she could spare so little time for the indulgence of her grief.

Again, in her waning years, she must take upon herself the burthen of the bread-winner, and in spite of her loneliness and suffering there was at times a thrill of prideful joy, in the thought that it was for his child that her remaining strength was to be spent.

Capable, neat, and trustworthy, she could turn her hand to almost anything, from the preparation of a grand dinner to the embroidering of a baby's waist, and so with strict economy she managed to gain a comfortable livelihood for herself and grandchild, in spite of the charitable predictions of her neighbors, to whom the sables were a continual eyesore.

"To think," groaned Mrs. Grundy, "that she should refuse to sell that victorine to Mis' Squire Calcott for two hundred dollars when she could a' got a set jest as good for her, at Fitch & Co's for twenty-five dollars,—all jest because that boy o' hern bought 'em for her. To be sure she did say that in case she should be laid up with sickness so she could not work she should very like ha' to let part with 'em, but as long as she could earn her bread with her own hands, she wouldn't sell her boy's last gift to buy jam for it."

And so Mother Bunch still wore the sables with, as the years went by and little Ruth's busy fingers added no small part to their weekly store, less fear of being obliged to part with her carefully treasured relics.

DR. SCHENCK ADVISES CONSUMPTIVES TO GO TO FLORIDA IN WINTER.

Having for the last thirty five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is, for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best of all places on this continent for this purpose, in winter, is Florida, well down in the State, where the temperature is regular, and not subject to such variations as in more northern latitudes. Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterman. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles farther down the river is a point which I would prefer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing. Mellonville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Mellonville; it is two miles from river or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times, but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly; therefore my advice is, go well down into the State, out of the reach of prevailing east winds and fogs. Jacksonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, deranged bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseased, a more southern point is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1869 I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, has enabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida nearly everybody is using Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce bilious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well-established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England one third at least of the population die of this terrible disease. In the Middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh colds as they are about scarlet fever, small-pox, &c., but they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope of cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly, is to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest. The physician who prescribes for cold, cough or night sweats, and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is, to give my three medicines in accordance with the printed directions, except in some cases where a freer use of the Mandrake Pills is necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach—to get up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish comes good blood, and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs—then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well, provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, Is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is and ever has been to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy degrees, which should be kept regularly at that point by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limits of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time and the proper kind of treatment is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption. Go where you will you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver better than calomel and leave none of its hurtful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhœa ensues, a dose of the Mandrakes will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache, take a dose of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night, and you may then drink water and eat watermelons, pears, apples, plums, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protect those who live in damp situations against chills and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you only good.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of my medicines depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say, that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, yet no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H. T. Helmbold's Extract Buchu,

Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin	Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude	Pallid Countenance

of the Muscular System

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes) soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system which H. T. HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instils the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought, and now the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonfuls of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

H. T. Helmbold's Rose Wash,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier, my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works:

NOTES.

Proposals must be to carry the mail with celerity, certainty, and security, using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connection with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained, for neglecting to take the mail from or into a post office, for suffering it to be injured, destroyed, robbed, or lost, and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running, vehicles on the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for disobeying the post office laws, or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures and arrivals, and also order an increase of service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also curtail or discontinue the service in whole or in part, at a proportionate decrease of pay, allowing as full indemnity to the contractor one month's extra compensation on the amount of service dispensed with, and a pro rata compensation for the service retained and continued. Bids should be addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General," superscribed "Proposals, State of Maine," and sent by mail.

For terms of proposal, &c., and other information see advertisement of Nov. 15, 1858, and of this date in pamphlet form, at the principal post offices.
